The trial of the suit of C. E. Haggerty and wife against E. T. Waterman and wife in the district court was completed yesterday and taken under advisement by Judge Macy. The plaintiffs filed an amended petition yesterday, setting up that at the time Haggerty signed the deed in controversy and the contract of support he was of unsound mind and consequently not competent to understand what he was doing The defense set up by Mr. and Mrs. Waterman was that the old folks deeded the property to their daughter, Mrs. Waterman, in consideration of her and her husband contracting to support them for the replaintiffs made an offer in court to give a conveyance of the property to Mrs. Waterman for her life and to her children absolutely, to take effect immediately on when during the course of her examination for the plantiffs if she intended holding on that something may develop from his visit. to the property of her aged parents in set aside is that the property may be so deeded that their grand children, the children of the defendants, may have the benefit of it. Council Bluffs Prepares to Make a Big Demonstration. Although the attendance at the meeting ast night at the Grand hotel called by President Graham of the Council Bluffs Exposition association to make arrangements for participation in Iowa day at the exposition on Wednesday, September 21, was not as large as had been desired, it was a representative one. It therefore seems fitting that a mass meeting of all citizens should be held for the purpose of discussing plans and measures for participation in the exercises above mentioned. The general sentiment was that the stores of the city should be closed at that there be a general outpouring of the people of Council Bluffs at the exposition of the Law. DUBUQUE, Ia., Sept. 13.-(Special.)-The rst prosecution for a violation of the war revenue law was conducted before Commisloner Cady in the custom house P. W. Morgan, who manufactures and sells a patent medicine, was the defendant. Last week General Deputy Collector C. D. Hayden enered Dr. Morgan's place to view his stock goods and ascertain if the sealed bottles ore revenue stamps of the denomination required by law. Mr. Hayden found many bottles around which circulars were wrapped, advertising the bottle for sale at $1. All of these bottles bore revenue stamps of the -8-cent denomination. The law requires that a 25-cent bottle of medicine shall bear 5-8-cent stamp, and that an additional Sc-stamp shall be put on for each additional 25 cents at which the bottle and its contents is valued. Therefore the bottle should bear a 2 1-2-cent stamp. Mr. Hayden caused Mr. Morgan's arrest and the defendant stood up for examination. Morgan admitted all the allegations, but set up in defense that the ottles bearing the dollar wrapper were sold or 25 cents.

"Then why didn't you advertise them for sale at 25 cents, and not for $1?" asked Mr.

Cram "Well, to be honest about it," replied Morgan, "I wanted to let the public think it was getting $1 worth of medicine for 25 cents.

"Just a trick of the trade, that's all," nterpolated Mr. Longueville. Morgan was bound over in $300 bonds to await the action of the federal grand jury He furnished bail.

It has been de termined to make an active fight. It was practically decided to open the campaign at LeMars about October 8, when well known speakers will be present. This will be followed by large meetings in every county in the district. The subject of the campaign funds was left to the state committee meeting in Des Moines this week and expressed the opinion that the campaign outlook is favorable.

Fuller is a real estate man and promoter and a resident of Humboldt county. The Board of Supervisors contend that he has failed to carry out his contract and they have accordingly taken the land from him. The land in question has been sold to private parties since given to the county by the government, about forty years ago. Here arises a cuestion as to whom the county must look for indemnity for the value of the land. The land is estimated to be worth $18,000 and it is likely that action will be begun against the government for the recovery of money lost to the county through the sale of the land.
